Antawn Falconer Class of 2018

Antawn Falconer graduated from CVCC's Building & Property Maintenance program instructed by Mr. Jason Hance, as well as Garfield Heights High School in 2018. Antawn started working at Precision Environmental in the Fall of 2017 as a warehouse worker. Seeing a lot of potential in him, the company placed him in the Laborer Apprenticeship program upon graduation. Over time, he progressed to Journeyman, and is currently on Precision Environmental's travel construction crew, spending most of his time out of state working.

This past October, Antawn was recognized by the Employment Collaborative of Cuyahoga County at their First Annual Gala, celebrating inclusion in employment. He won the Rising Star Award due to his example in climbing company ranks so quickly and continuing to succeed in the workplace. CVCC's Job Training Coordinator, Stacey McNamara, who is pictured with Antawn, had this to say... "Antawn was assigned to my caseload several years ago with the instructions, "Go find something amazing for This One." He always went that one extra step, always tried just a little harder than everyone else. He is making a huge impact not only [at Precision] but on projects he does around the country. Most people don't start off sweeping floors and get to this point in 5 years, but Antawn isn't most people..." CVCC congratulates Antawn and wishes him continued success for years to come!
