Madison Stutin

Twinsburg

Madison Stutin, a junior at Twinsburg High School, is making the most of her time in the Medical Administrative Specialist (MAS) program at Cuyahoga Valley Career Center (CVCC), taught by Lisa Clements. She chose this program to gain an early advantage in knowledge and skills, aligning with her long-term goal of owning her own business. For Madison, the MAS program was the perfect stepping stone toward her ambitions.

Madison is grateful for how CVCC has expanded her horizons and encouraged her to step out of her comfort zone. One of her favorite experiences has been building her communication skills through class phone exercises. "We call one another in class to practice communication and customer service. It's so fun, hilarious, and unique!" she shared.

Mrs. Clements is impressed by Madison's dedication and leadership, noting her involvement in several key events. In October, Madison represented Twinsburg as an Ambassador at the CVCC All Boards Meeting, where she spoke to board members about her experiences. In November, she participated in a CVCC panel discussion, sharing her insights with Twinsburg middle schoolers about CVCC's programs and their impact on future careers. Most recently, Madison spoke to incoming sophomores during their visit to CVCC. She is a passionate advocate for CVCC and the MAS program, consistently inspiring others to explore the opportunities available.

Looking ahead, Madison plans to attend Lake Erie College, where she intends to major in equine business—focusing on areas such as breeding, teaching, and trading horses—and minor in criminology. She also hopes to become certified in massage therapy.

Madison encourages others to take a chance on CVCC, saying, "Try it! There are endless opportunities at CVCC, and it's such a fun and exciting way to jump-start your career. Why not get ahead and set yourself up for success?"

Beyond academics, Madison is active in HOSA at Twinsburg High School, has been horseback riding since she was five years old, participates in 4-H with horses, rabbits, and goats, and enjoys doing photography in her free time. Keep up the outstanding work, Madison!
