Jack Boskelly

Twinsburg

Jack Boskelly, a student at Twinsburg High School, is enrolled in CVCC's Automotive Technology program under the instruction of Jamie Yax. When the opportunity to attend CVCC arose, Jack was eager to pursue a more hands-on learning experience while getting a head start on his future—especially after hearing great things about the program. Inspired in part by his dad, Jack recalls watching him work on his truck and being shown how to do things himself. Those early experiences sparked his interest in the automotive field, and CVCC has provided the perfect environment to explore that passion. He also recognized that the program would equip him with valuable life skills, like maintaining and repairing his own vehicle.

"I didn't even know how to change a tire before starting the program," Jack shared. "I'd always forget what my dad showed me—but now I know so much and am excited to keep learning. Mr. Yax is seriously the best instructor. He's always pushing me and even teaches beyond what's planned for the day because he knows I want to learn. If you want a hands-on education, CVCC is the place to be—but you have to want it, and I definitely do. Being here, along with working at Twinsburg Goodyear, has confirmed this is what I want to do for a career." When asked about his favorite experience so far, Jack said it's hard to choose—but recently, he enjoyed working on the brakes of an older Camaro. "Hearing Mr. Yax start it up was the best—it was so loud, it was awesome!"

"Jack is one of the most highly engaged students in the program," said Mr. Yax. "He consistently goes above and beyond expectations and is always willing to help others. He puts forth great effort every day, comes prepared, and actively seeks out new learning opportunities in automotive and related technologies. I'm very happy to have him in the program."

Outside of the classroom, Jack works six days a week at Twinsburg Goodyear, where he gains real-world experience working on more than just tires. He plans to continue working there while completing his education at CVCC, with the goal of becoming a master technician and eventually owning his own shop. After graduation, he intends to go straight into the workforce. Jack is also a member of the wrestling and football teams at Twinsburg High School and enjoys spending his free time with friends and working on his own car. Keep up the great work, Jack!
